Wheel and Axle Activity

Wheels and axles act like a rolling inclined plane. They make things move easier by removing friction. Sometimes teeth cut into the wheel to make gears, a special kind of wheel and axle.

They occur in lots of places.

Try and make a list of 10 different places around your house where you can find a wheel and axle.

1. _______________________________________________________
2. _______________________________________________________
3. _______________________________________________________
4. _______________________________________________________
5. _______________________________________________________
6. _______________________________________________________
7. _______________________________________________________
8. _______________________________________________________
9. _______________________________________________________
10. _________________________________________________________